Short introduction to the website

We have now launched the website of REINVENT. It can be found here:

<http://reinvent-project.eu/>.

The website will be continuously updated with news, documents and events. It is easy to create new pages on the site and to edit the ones already there. The site is built using the tool Wordpress, which is easy to learn and does not require HTML skills.

We have created four categories, one for every industrial sector. These can be used to categorise posts, like news or publications. For example all posts about steel can be seen under the page steel. These categories can also be removed if they turn out to be redundant.
